

Terms and conditions (9)

for the provision to Cambridge authors of PDF or LaTeX or other electronic files of their books (secure networking allowed)

At proof stage

PDFs or other electronic versions are made available to Cambridge authors at proof stage in order to facilitate the proofing process and for no other purpose. Once PDF proofs have been checked and corrections made, the PDFs should be deleted from the author's computer.

The published book or chapter

Cambridge does not routinely provide to authors PDFs or LaTeX or other e-files of the published version of their book/chapter. In exceptional cases the Press may supply such files, but this will be on the terms and conditions below.

- The e-file of the book is made available for the author's private use only, or for teaching/research purposes by the author within his own institution.
- The e-file may not be posted on a fully public website.
- Where posted on an electronic network, the e-file must be password-protected and distributed in accordance with terms that have been agreed separately with an officer of the Press.
- The e-file may not be altered and 'passed off' as the original work.
- The e-file may not be altered for any reason without the permission of Cambridge University Press.

It is possible that posting of part of a book on an author's own or institutional public website might be permissible under certain additional terms and conditions. If an author wishes to discuss this, they should contact the appropriate Press Permission Controller: Marc Anderson manderson@cambridge.org for authors in North America; Wanda Clee wcclee@cambridge.org for authors in Australia and New Zealand; and Linda Nicol lnicol@cambridge.org for authors in the rest of the world.
